10:30-11:30	Panel Discussion I: Leading Without Permission She's not waiting for a seat, she's building the table, the room, and the rules.  In industries like mining, energy, technology, mobility, and customer experience, the boardrooms and decision-making spaces have long been dominated by men. Yet, the women in these fields are not merely joining the conversation — they're reshaping it. This unapologetic discussion celebrates the women who refused to be boxed in by titles, labels, or expectations, and instead carved their own paths to leadership.  Key discussion points include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Breaking through invisible ceilings — from mining shafts to mobility boardrooms, from power grids to product labs — and how women are redefining what leadership looks like.</li> <li>• Authenticity as a power move — leading with your voice, your values, and your vision, even when it challenges the status quo.</li> <li>• Building your own table — turning barriers into launchpads for innovation, influence, and inclusion.</li> <li>• Cross-sector lessons in courage — what mining can learn from mobility, what tech can teach energy, and how CX can unite them all.</li> </ul> It's a conversation for every woman who's been told she needs permission — and for every man who's ready to be part of dismantling the structures that required that permission in the first place. Because she's not fitting in — she's standing out, showing up, and shaking the world.

Burnout has become a silent epidemic, with many pushing beyond their limits until mental, emotional, and physical health are compromised.  In this intimate fireside chat, two renowned wellness leaders will have an honest, relatable, and inspiring conversation on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Burnout — recognising the signs early, and understanding the difference between being busy and being depleted.</li> <li>• Boundaries — setting them without guilt, and how to communicate them in personal and professional spaces.</li> <li>• Mental health — breaking the stigma, finding the right support systems, and integrating daily practices that safeguard emotional resilience.</li> <li>• Holistic self-care — moving beyond spa days to include nutrition, movement, rest, spiritual connection, and emotional well-being.</li> <li>• The ripple effect — how prioritising your well-being empowers you to lead, nurture, and create from a place of fullness rather than fatigue.</li> </ul> This conversation will offer practical tools, real-life stories, and a reframing of self-care as not a luxury, but a leadership necessity. Attendees will leave with permission and strategies to protect their energy, nourish their minds, and sustain their impact — because when women are well, the world is well.

The need to close the gap for women equality, positions and roles of leaderships remains an on-going battle. This is undeniable. The WomenIN platform provides invaluable opportunities to network, strengthen communities and ignite action to change the landscape which women operate in. The WomenIN has taken the time, attention, dedication and action to provide the grounds to raise the tide together that will build generational legacies.
